

GOVT DEGREE COLLEGE TANGMARG BARAMULLAH

Department of political Science

Learning Outcomes based Curriculum Framework (LOCF)

| S.no | Semster | Learning Outcomes based Curriculum Framework (LOCF)   |
|------|---------|---|
| 1.   | 1st     | The course is introductory in nature. It will help students to understand the basic concepts in Political Theory. The understanding of these concepts will smoothen their path to the more advanced theoretical debates in Political Theory & Political Philosophy.   |
| 2.   | 2nd     | The course is meant to acquaint students with different aspects of India polity and processes. The paper will help students to understand the post-independence political, social and economic transformation in India.   |
| 3.   | 3rd     | In this course we shall focus on the nature, scope and utility of the comparative study of politics. The Comparative study of political processes, institutions and procedures across political systems should help students to appreciate the scope of comparative method in political science.  |
| 4.   | 4th     | Besides introducing International Relations as an important subdiscipline in Political Science, this course should help students learn how the major theoretical approaches in IR attempt to understand and explain the relations between nations of the world. The student will further understand the place of India in world affairs and its foreign policy. |
| 5.   | 5th     | This course should enable students to comprehend the Western tradition of Political Thought which has hugely influenced the growth of political processes, institutions and ideas around the world.   |
| 6.   | 6th     | The objective of this course is to educate students about the contours of Public Administration, its importance and relevance. After studying this paper the students should be able to distinguish between the public & private administration, comprehend the theories of administration and critically evaluate the administrative system in India.          |